Hypnotherapy & Hypnotherapy

What is hypnosis?

Hypnosis is the state where the body is unusually relaxed and the mind is focused upon the imagination. All people enter into the hypnotic state several times every single day and do not even notice it. This experience is commonly known as daydreaming.

The only real difference between daydreaming and hypnosis is that in hypnosis the therapist enables and guides the daydream for therapeutic purposes.

How does hypnotherapy work?

Hypnotherapy works by utilising the powers of suggestion and rapport to enlist the positive healing powers of the subconscious. The powerful subconscious mind can be empowered to help the individual move towards potential possibilities of self-development and personal growth.

Hypnotherapy uses a safe and naturally occurring state. In the hypnotic state the clients are still in control of their own mind. In effect, the state of hypnosis is simply a special type of daydream utilised by the therapist to enlist the positive healing forces of the subconscious.

Hypnotherapy is a reliable and safe therapeutic technique which is centuries old and is recognised by many branches of orthodox medicine as a valuable alternative to drugs, to accelerate healing, and to help relieve pain.

What is hypnotherapy?

Hypnotherapy is the practice of psychotherapy with applied hypnosis being the primary approach.

Why use hypnotherapy?

- 1) To guide you to your inner strengths and problem solving capabilities
- 2) To leave you with self-help techniques so that you are able to help yourself from now on.

Through our lives, we experience a variety of life situations: cycles of relative ease and well-being: times of great challenge and difficulty. The cause of our difficulties may be known - but the cause may also be unknown.

Although most clients enter into a therapeutic relationship for reasons of challenge, for some the motivation is simply the desire to grow in awareness, to become more true to oneself, to reawaken more spontaneity and aliveness.

Uses for Hypnotherapy and Hypnotherapy

- Letting go of unwanted habits (e.g. smoking, nocturnal enuresis, nail biting, stuttering).
- Obtaining relief and often remission from symptoms such as: asthma, migraine, gastro-intestinal and neurological disorders.
- Dermatological conditions such as eczema, psoriasis, neurodermatitis, herpes simplex and even warts.
- Pain control for minor surgery, dentistry, arthritis and general neuromuscular aches and pains.
- Hypnosis can free people from phobias, compulsions, emotional problems, insomnia, inhibitions, guilt feelings, jealousy & many of the worries and anxieties of everyday life.
- The use of Self-Hypnosis will help prevent stress and tensions caused by modern day living, reduce high blood pressure and the risk of cardiovascular disease.

- Hypnotherapy for effective weight-control, increasing work/study/sporting performance, improving concentration & memory, developing the imagination, boosting self-confidence and helping to achieve more of the potential, which we all possess.
